

CCE Leadership Honored

There was toasting, shopping and mingling at Hive Gift and Garden during their eighth anniversary celebration which honored leadership for the Center for Creative Education (CCE). A celebratory toast honored CCE Board members Pam Miller, Michele Kukla and James Meany. A percentage of all the day's shopping proceeds from Hive Gift and Garden, and Hive for Her, Him & Kids was donated to CCE and totaled more than $15,000.

"We were so happy to team up with the amazing staff at Hive to create a unique experience for our supporters and those who love shopping for luxurious home goods," said Robert L. Hamon, CCE President and CEO. "We love to take any opportunity we can to involve more community members in our mission. Their generous donation and the opportunity to spotlight our outstanding leadership is so appreciated. The night truly was a success."

"We are thankful to be a part of such a philanthropic community," said Sara McCann, CEO and Creative Director for Hive. "Partnering with local nonprofits allows us to give back in a meaningful way. CCE impacts the lives of so many young people in Palm Beach County and the CCE team is remarkably passionate and dedicated. We couldn't ask for a better group of people to honor at our anniversary celebration."

To learn more about general CCE programming or to make a tax-deductible contribution to the Center for Creative Education, a 501(c)(3) call Vivianne Hall at 561.805.9927, ext. 105.

FIRST ROW: David Frisbie, Robert Hamon and James Meany; Michele and Jim Kukla; SECOND ROW: Brad and Pam Miller; Jim and Sara McCann; THIRD ROW: Bruce Helander and Camila Sargent; Kitty Carbonara and John Ver Bockel; FOURTH ROW: Carol Baxter, Patricia Duncan and Constance Murrin

